Project Description

Interested in marketing and design? This is an opportunity for someone creative and motivated to design multiple online training classes. Though we have information on a variety of different environmental topics, we need assistance with organizing the information into a fun, engaging online training format. The basic content needs to be entered into a format we can distribute nationwide on a variety of sources. Dynamic, creative, and exciting presentations are key to effectively training and preparing our workforce to rise to the task at hand. Help us consider how to present trainees with this information in useful, accessible and exciting ways!
